PART II: READING COMPREHENSION

(20 MARKS)

Read the following text carefully and do All the exercises that follow.

Flying for Southern Air

Craig Brown is one of Britain’s busiest helicopter pilots. Five years ago, Craig started working for Southern Air. Southern Air hires out helicopters, gives flying lessons and runs a helicopter taxi services.

Craig started in the company office. Then he took flying lessons. After three years, he got his instructor’s licence. Craig loves training people to fly helicopters. “When someone flies solo for the first time, it’s fantastic,” he says. “Some people are nervous about helicopters, but cars are much more dangerous. More people die in their cars than in helicopters. And if your engine fails, you can land anywhere you want.”

Helicopter taxis transport famous people when they don’t want to travel by car. They’re also very useful to the police. They can send pictures of busy roads to the police and help when the police are chasing criminals. Helicopters can follow fast cars when they are speeding down motorways and send information to the police.

Why does Craig like his job? “It’s very varied. I never know what I’m going to do the next day. Last Monday I took a member of the government to a meeting in Scotland. The next day, I worked on a television programme about traffic control.”
