THE STORY OF BASKETBALL

It was a dark winter evening in the year 1891. It was too cold and rainy to play outside. James Naismith, a sports teacher at an American school, tried to think what to do with his students. They were bored! 'What new game can I teach my students?' he said. He looked around the gym for ideas.

There were two old fruit baskets on the floor in the corner of the gym. He jumped up and said. 'I've got it! What a wonderful idea! Let's take a basket and put it on the wall. Kids, throw the ball into the basket, Hurray! I invented a new game, I'll call it basketball!'

The same night he created the rules of the game. He decided that there would be two teams with five players on each team. The players scored points for each ball they threw into the basket. The students loved the game!

Soon Naismith's new game became one of the most popular sports all over the United States. Men and Women, boys and girls played this new ball game. Today, people all over the world love basketball.
