PART II: READING SKILLS

(30 MARKS)

Read the passage below and answer ALL the questions that follow.

The Fascinating history of RMS Queen Mary.

The awe-inspiring ship from the golden era of cruising has an incomparable history and a reputation as one of the world's most luxury ships.

Launched in 1934, the RMS Queen Mary was the jewel of the Cunard-White Star Cruise Line, christened by Her Majesty Queen Mary herself. The largest cruise ship of its time at 1,019 feet long, it was considered the fastest and most powerful, as well as the most beautiful. Adorned with the finest classical décor of the era, it is still considered to be one of the most elegant passenger ships ever built.

When World War II broke out, the Queen Mary was recruited because of its power and speed to transport Allied troops to war zones. It was fitted as a troopship in 1940, painted in dull grey to camouflage it from U-boats, earning it the wartime name of the "Grey Ghost." From 1940 through 1945, the ship transported about 800,000 troops, sailed more than a half-million nautical miles, and made such a difference in helping the Allies win the war.

When the war was over, the military equipment was removed, and the Queen Mary was repainted and restored to its original grand state of luxury. It quickly returned to active duty as one of the most extravagant cruises, but now had also earned a heroic wartime reputation. During its time as one of the most famous cruise ships in history, the Queen Mary attracted celebrities and the elite in show business, politics, and business, including Winston Churchill, Walt Disney, Elizabeth Taylor, and the Kennedys.

As transatlantic cruise traffic declined and air travel became more common, the financial decision was made to sell the Queen Mary, and the ship was retired in 1967, making its final voyage from Southampton to rest in Long Beach Harbour in California. In order for it to accommodate the expansive plans as a Long Beach tourist attraction, significant restructuring, refurbishing, and renovating was performed, including the removal of the boilers, the forward engine, and the stabilizers. As a hotel and museum, the ship allowed thousands of guests each year to relive history and experience first-hand what the majestic cruise life was like in an era gone by.

Menhirs

Standing stones, also called menhirs, are stones which have 1. (being / been / be) set vertically into the ground. About 6000 years ago, people 2. (were placing / have placed / placed) the stones in the shape of a circle, like the famous monument Stonehenge.

Stonehenge is by far the largest and most impressive stone circle, not only 3. (because / since / due) to its size, but also because the stones were transported a huge distance to the site. 4. (Although / However / Despite), there are about 1,300 more stone circles in the world, Stonehenge is the most famous. Besides Britain and Ireland, many more stone circles exist in northwest France as 5. (well / long / far) as in Denmark and Sweden.

The 6. (early / earliest / earlier) standing stones are about 6000 years old, and people continued to erect them until about 3500 years 7. (ago / before / yet). Experts believe that they were important religious sites and they also functioned as meeting places. At some sites, such as Stonehenge, the stones are positioned in relation 8. (by / to / with) the sun, so they might also have functioned as calendars.

At Stonehenge, on the longest day of the year, the sun 9. (is rising / rose / rises) slightly to the left of the largest stone, which is called the Heel Stone, and the sun's first rays shine right into the centre of the circle. We know that people at that time 10. (used to / got used to / should) be farmers, so information about the changing seasons was extremely important because it allowed them to plan their planting and harvests.
