Hi Best friend!

How are you? I hope you are fine. I am having a great time in Kentucky. It's a small town but it's very busy.

There are many famous and historic sights, like Churchill Downs and Mary Todd Lincoln House. There you can learn about history and take pictures. They are very interesting! Did you know that we had a horse park? It's exciting! It has got all kind of different horses and you can ride one if you want.

What is your town like? Are there any interesting sights?
Please write back and tell me all about it!

Take care,
Jonathan

The longest journey in space

On 20th August and 5th September in 1977, two spacecrafts took off from Florida, USA. Voyager 1 and Voyager 2 started a long and difficult journey to the end of the solar system. They flew past new places in our solar system and sent photos of planets and moons to NASA (National Aeronautics and Space Administration).

Voyager 1’s journey

Voyager 1 arrived at Jupiter, the largest planet in the solar system. At a distance of 349,000 kilometres from Earth, scientists received the best photographs of the planet from Voyager 1 and they discovered a lot about the planet’s weather. Jupiter also has a moon with volcanoes. Voyager 1’s next stop was Saturn. Saturn is smaller than Jupiter and it’s most famous for its rings. From Voyager 1’s photographs, scientists discovered the rings are mostly water and ice.

Voyager 2’s journey

Voyager 2 also visited Jupiter and Saturn after Voyager 1, but then it continued to Uranus. Uranus is the coldest planet in the solar system. There is a lot of ice on the surface. During its journey round Uranus, there were mechanical problems with Voyager 2’s camera. Eventually, scientists fixed it and Voyager 2 travelled to Neptune. Neptune is the furthest planet from the sun (4.5 billion kilometres) and it was the last planet on Voyager 2’s journey.

Global fashion

Gillian Turner-Niles is a fashion photographer. She lives in New York and works in the fashion capitals of the world. You can see her photographs on the pages of fashion magazines across the world. Her clients include Gucci, Dior, Ferragamo, even the sports clothing company Nike. But today she's talking to me by phone from the middle of Sudan. So, what is she doing there?

'I'm taking photographs, of course!' She explains, 'I'm not taking photographs for Vogue or anyone else. It's like a holiday. In my business, it's easy to forget there's another world out there. And I like looking at clothes in a different way when I travel.'

But in this world of global fashion, people all over the world wear the same clothes. The businessman's suit in Beijing is like the businessman's suit in Berlin. And jeans and T-shirts are almost a type of uniform these days.

'Yes, I think that's true in the big international cities,' Gillian says. 'But I'm visiting regions in the world with their own traditional clothes and their own fashions. That's especially true in this part of Africa.'
