

Affolter, C. & Reti, M. (Eds.) (2014). Travelling guide: Practitioners guide to school and community collaboration for Sustainable Development. Vienna: Ensi i.n.p.a.

This book is organized around basic questions arising during the collaboration: what, who, why, how, when, where. These chapters each include a Theory box highlighting one specific point from research that could probably enhance collaboration practice, Benefits and Challenges that elaborate on practical details to consider, accompanied by an Exemplar case, which presents experience from collaborations within CoDeS Multilateral Network.

Overarching views and complex experiences are collected in the Introduction by the leader of a former international project, while Basics provide theoretical background for those who are interested to learn more. Suggested reading might inspire further inquiries, while Leading questions are meant to foster reflection.
