You will hear a man talking about a woman achieving a dream at 104.

Listen and underline the correct word in brackets.

Achieving a dream at 104

It's never too late to learn a new skill. In 2021 a 104-year-old Indian woman achieved something 1. (incredible / remarkable / unbelievable). She learnt how to read and write. Kuttiyamma Konthi always dreamed of becoming a 2. (leader / lecturer / teacher). However, she didn't manage to achieve this dream because her family couldn't afford to send the children to school.

Married at 16 she spent her time doing chores and 3. (raising / rising / praising) her children. Many years later while looking after her 10 grandchildren Kuttiyamma sat next to them and watched them studying. After sometime, she could understand the alphabet of her 4. (national / native / sign) language, Malayalam, but still wasn't able to read or write. Thanks to her neighbour a 34-year-old literacy teacher, Kuttiyamma was 5. (unable / able / capable) to join a government literacy programme. She worked on her reading and writing skills every day and received support from her teacher who often 6. (dealt / worked / met) with her.

In just three months, she was able to finish all the courses which were designed to last a year. She could now read the 7. (local / global / social) newspaper every day, but Kuttiyamma's 8. (accomplishments / achievements / attainments) didn't end there. In November 2021, she managed to score 89 out of 100 on a simple literacy exam. She 9. (claims / states / explains) that she aims to live long enough to see her grandchildren become successful. Kuttiyamma's 10. (efforts / records / endeavours) show us that it's never too late to achieve a life ambition.
