Address by the Minister of Education and Culture

4

It is with great pleasure that I have been following the development of Music Synergies in Education and Culture in recent years. The promotion of valuable cultural activities through a series of collaborations with organizations, cultural and educational institutions are an important asset for the development of music education in Cyprus.

The Ministry of Education and Culture recognises and supports the right of all children to participate in the contemporary social and cultural life. By opening the school to the community, our young people have the opportunity to meet artists from Cyprus and abroad, and participate in a variety of activities of high artistic value.

Part of the strategic planning in this direction is the continuous development and expansion of the Cyprus Music Schools. Their work is exemplified by the richness of the activities presented in this publication, showcasing their multifaceted contribution to local communities, such as the events organised this year in collaboration with the Organisation Pafos2017 - European Capital of Culture. Moreover, there is a growing representation at an international level, through cooperation with schools abroad and invitations to events beyond the borders of Cyprus. The Music Schools' focus on choral development is demonstrated effectively at the yearly One-day Choir Workshop and concert, which has become established as an exceptional artistic and educational tradition. At the same time, the continued collaboration of the Music Schools with the Cyprus Symphony Orchestra and the Cyprus Youth Symphony Orchestra has presented this year a series of concerts in Cyprus and abroad, such as the "Exultate Jubilate" Christmas Concert, a concert featuring W. A. Mozart's Requiem and the "Zyriotishes Galakonzert", with the participation of the renowned Cypriot artists Kyros Patsalidis and Zoe Nikolaidou, at the Musikverein in Vienna.

Talented young people from Lefkosia, Pafos and Ammochostos had the opportunity to participate in the Regional Orchestra. At the same time, the pilot Wind Instrument Instruction Program, in cooperation with the European University of Cyprus continued its expansion.

Aiming for enhanced youth participation in cultural activities, the Cyprus Symphony Orchestra Foundation and the Pharos Arts Foundation continue to offer students a variety of educational programmes such as open rehearsals, educational concerts, music workshops and seminars. At the same time, co-operation between public and private secondary and tertiary education is encouraged through actions such as the “Musical Vibes” student concert and a number of school based educational programmes.

Within the framework of the four-year target for the development of singing, the Ministry of Education and Culture supported the establishment of the Pancyprian Singing Day, encouraging thus a variety of educational and recreational activities focusing on class singing and choral music. In this framework, a pilot singing development programme was successfully implemented, in addition to other traditional actions such as the 8th Pancyprian Students’ Composition Festival, which this year has focused on song compositions.

Finally, in the context of music educators’ in-service training, an International Music Education Conference was organised with the participation of internationally renowned music educators, such as Prof. Keith Swanwick, Prof. Patricia Shehan Campbell, Prof. Lucy Green, Prof. Graham Welch et al.

The development of qualitative and innovative cultural activities, as presented in the current electronic document, demonstrates in the best possible way that the Ministry of Education and Culture, continues to invest, through targeted partnerships, in young people’s cultural education. The impressive results let us hope that further development is to be expected.

Costas Kadis
Minister of Education and Culture

Aims of Music Educational Programmes and Actions

The educational programmes and actions showcased in this year's edition were developed in the context of a music education that aims to promote the interaction of school music and community, through a variety of musical experiences in performing, composing and active listening, inside and outside school, which are expected to encourage young people's life-long active participation in culture and the arts.

Specific aims:

- To encourage participation in the cultural life of the community.
- To promote life-long cultural engagement.
- To connect school music education with community music, thus enriching the music curriculum and formal music learning.
- To foster a diverse and comprehensive education for future artists, as well as to increase public participation in the arts, through appropriately designed musical experiences that promote musicality and creativity.
- To demystify the notion of the "classical orchestra" and "classical musicians", firstly, through enhancing active audience listening skills and secondly, through active participation in diverse musical activities
- To provide innovating approaches in the area of audience development.
- To develop personal and interpersonal communication and collaborative learning skills.
- To enhance a positive attitude towards local traditional heritage and the importance of its preservation.
- To develop a positive attitude towards music in an intercultural context.
- To enhance innovative cultural entrepreneurship by contributing to the personal and professional development of musicians.

- Around 10% of students in Cyprus Gymnasiums, Lyceums and Technical Schools participate yearly in educational programs. Further dissemination of educational programs is promoted through live-broadcasting and publishing of video recordings on a specific YouTube channel. Systematic monitoring and evaluation ensures the continuous upgrade of the quality and effectiveness of the programs.
- In the context of improving dissemination through the use of digital technology, a number of programmes has been broadcast live during school time or video recorded and broadcasted through a special channel on the Cyprus Ministry of Education and Culture website, thus making the video recordings available for future educational use.
- There is a continuous effort to consistently upgrade the quality and long-term effectiveness of all programmes through systematic monitoring and evaluation.
